MODEL CITIES FUTURE UNCERTAIN

Director Keith Palmquist told the Model Cities Task forces on Monday that the Tacoma program should receive funds through September, 1973, and possibly beyond that.

Mr. Palmquist said that Tacoma should continue to receive the rest of its grant which will end in September of this year. In addition to the current grant, the Department of Housing and Urban Development has some funds left which will probably be used for the Model Cities program. These funds will be divided among existing programs throughout the United States within the next few weeks or months.

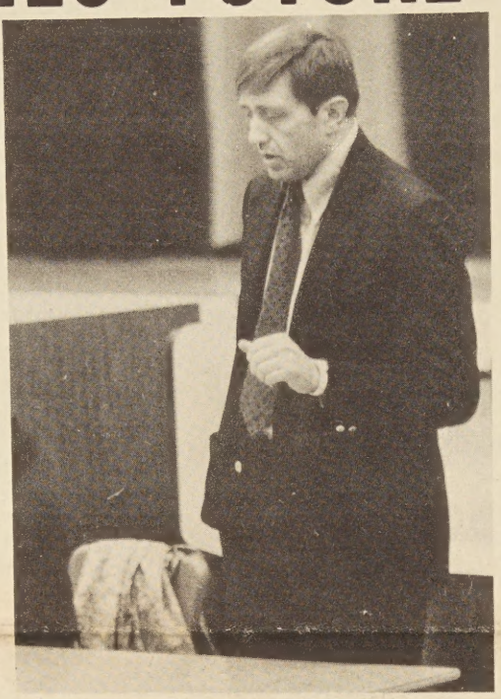
With the possibil ity of a reduced funding beyond September, the task forces must decide which projects w ill be considered. Mr. Palmquist told the task forces not to get discouraged and to put comm unity needs above personal interests in setting priorities.

During a question and answer period, Dee Botley asked if planned projects, such as Housing Development, which have not been implemented were considered new or old projects. Mr. Palmquist said that they would probably be considered old projects and could be considered for funding.

Answering another question, Mr. Palmquist said that the City might take over some projects at the proper time using revenue sharing money. He said he wasn't certain what the City would do though.

Another citizen asked about the salaries of employes of the Adult Outreach and Layman Education Programs. Mr. Palmquist said that the employes were payed for January, when they became temporary City employes. The salaries for November and December will not be released until the accounting problems with the Central Employment Agency and the two projects are resolved.

When asked if he favored the City holding up salaried, Mr. Palmquist said he definitely did not. He said that he had tried to get the salaries released, but the City refused to act until the accounting problems are resolved. The salaries may be paid by Friday.



Model Cities Director Keith Palmquist explains that Model Cities should last until September, 1973, and may last beyond that.

Veterans Adm. Corrects Erroneous Rumors

SEATTLE, WASH. (Dec. 5)--Washington State World War II veterans are being cruelly deceived by an erroneous rumor of a special dividend on their G.I. insurance, according to W.R. Phillips, director fot he Veterans Administration regional office in Seattle.

Phillips said leaflets and pamphlets detailing the rumor as true have been distributed in many parts of the country and newspapers have unwittingly carried the story.

He said VA officials are concerned that many World War II veterans how have the false hope they are in for an insurance special dividend windfall.

"They are not," the state VA director explained. "The hoax that has swept the nation usually involves accumulated dividends that are supposed to have piled up on World War II National Service Life Insurance policies--even if no premiums have been paid on the policies since the end of the war."

Phillips said the stories may stem from an action taken in 1948 when payment of a special dividend on these same policies was authorized. These dividends were derived from premium overpayments because of a lower than anticipated casualtry rate during the war.

However, all payments of these special dividends ended years ago.

A regular 1972 dividend has been paid, only to those veterans who have G.I. insurance policies in force. Another will be paid next ye ar to policy holders. No application for the dividend is necessary since they are paid automatically to policyholders.

Discrimination In Lodges

Racial discrimination was obstructed in one place while it barely survived in another. In Portland, Maine, the State Supreme Court ruled unanimously that Elk lodges that practice racial discrimination may not be granted state liquor licenses.

The decision was the first test of a 1969 Marine law that requires that anyone holding a liquor license shall not discriminate in membership on account of race, religion or national orgin.

Justice Sidney W. Wernick, writing the decision said that liquor commission had acted within its legitimate authority in denying to the Elks the renewal of their licenses to sell intoxicating liquors in Maine because the "character and manner of operation of the applicants were and will be, in violation of an important public policy."

In the same day, the U.S. Supreme Court dismissed an appeal by the Harrisburg, Pa., lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose from a state court decision that the private club had made itself a "public accommodation by admitting guests and thus could not bar Negroes from guest privileges.

In one sentence statement, the court, without a dissenting voice, rejected the appeal because it could not find a substantial federal question in the Pennsylvania court interpretation of the state's human relations act.

The decision came over protests by the lodge that such a finding "would transfer the dinning space of every private home in the land into a place of public accommodation, once persons not members of the family are admitted."

The case arose three years ago when K. Leroy Irvis, majority leader of the state House of Representatives, went to the moose lodge as a guest with a group of white legislators but was refused service because he is black. The lodge is half-block from the state capitol.

Your corner emergency telephone service has just been cancelled.

A coin phone can get you help fast when you need it. In Seattle, it's as easy as dialing 911 to reach fire, police, or rescue service.

But sometimes somebody gets to the phone before you do. And when you get there it doesn't work. Because somebody thought more of a handful of nickels, than they thought of your safety.

So when you see a broken or vandalized phone booth, please call us fast. We'll fix it fast. Just call repair service. If you call from a coin phone we'll even refund your dime.

It may be our phone booth. But it could be your fire.

CPAs Clarify Tax Law Application For Aged

Elderly taxpayers enjoy certain breaks under Federal tax laws, but some of the regulations affecting them are rather complicated. The Washington Society of Certified Public Accountants has attempted to clarify the picture.

Beginning with the most clearcut provisions of the Revenue Act, the CPAs point out that benefits under the Social Security and Railroad Retirement Programs are tax exempt. Also, pensioners are not taxed on that portion of their pension benefits resulting from contributions they, themselves, made from previously taxed income.

Most other pension benefits are taxable, but the tax rates for the elderly, because of their usually reduced incomes, are in most cases low. Each person over 65 gets a double personal exemption, and since the exemption went up to $750 in 1972, that means $3,000 in exemptions for a couple above that age. Taken together with the low income allowance, which also went up -- from $1,050 to $1,300 -- this means the couple can have an income of $4,300 over the above their Social Security benefits without incurring any tax obligations.

If a person has received pension or annuity benefits that are taxable, the CPAs recommend that he call or write the nearest IRS office to obtain simple forms for reporting them and computing the tax due.

To avoid having to pay one large tax on pension earnings at the end of the year, it is often possible to arrange with the company making the payments to withhold income tax from the monthly pension check.

Retired people who receive little or nothing from Social Security can sometimes save up to a few hundred dollars on the taxes owed on investment income by use of a device called the retirement income credit. For this, qualified guidance is almost indispensable.

For the children of retired people, the CPAs have a reminder that an unmarried person may qualify for special tax treatment as a "head of household" if he provides more than half the support of dependent relatives. Relatives other than parents have to live in taxpayer's home, but parents can live elsewhere.

If more than one child supports an elderly parent, yet none provides more than half the support, one of them can still take the parent as a dependent. The others must agree not to claim the exemption this year. In some families the children alternate in taking the exemption, says the CPA Society.

Letter To The Editor

My name is Mr. Harry H. Crossman of 804 So. L St. I'd like to take this time to express my thanks to the vector control project of the Model Cities Program for their cooperation in clearing the alleys in our neighborhood.

Our alleys used to be a real mess and since September, 1972, they have been cleaned three times and it makes it pleasureable to walk down these alleyways. There are a lot of us senior citizens in this particular area and we use these alleys quite frequently during the day.

I would like to say thanks again to the vector control project and hope they can keep up the good work all over the Model Neighborhood.

FROSTBITE CHECKUP

When it's not warm enough to ignore winter, or cold enough to turn your back entirely on the outdoor garden there is still plenty of busy work to be done. • Now is the time to saw off storm-broken tree branches that can be safely reached. Dress cut surface with one of the new low pressure aerosol plastic sprays especially made for this use. The spray will prevent drying of raw wood and entry of disease organisms. • Also check for signs of frost heaving by small plants and autumn-set bulbs. If crowns or roots have been pushed out of the ground push gently back where ground is thawed; otherwise, cover lightly with salt hay to prevent drying and to retard alternate freezing and thawing until temperature makes resetting possible. Broadly speaking, a root is temporarily safe out of the ground if it is kept from drying--but only if it is. • Don't forget to inspect branches of fruit trees, hawthorns, ornamental cherries for the brittle, blue-black egg masses of tent caterpillars and rub off with forefinger. A nickel-size egg wafer now could be a thousand-caterpillar tent later. • And to make your cold weather checkup complete, note low spots on lawn or border where ice puddles form thus indicating poor drainage. Next season, fill ground or safeguard against turf diseases on sodden soil.

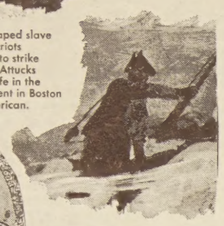
Discovering a Black Past

During the Revolutionary War, James Derham learned much about the art of healing from his master. After the war he eventually earned enough money to buy his freedom. And within several years he had a thriving medical practice in New Orleans.



On March 5th, 1770, an escaped slave and leader of the Boston Patriots encouraged his companions to strike the British Redcoats. Crispus Attucks became the first to lose his life in the cause of freedom. A monument in Boston pays tribute to this Afro-American.

Phyllis Wheatley was brought to this country as a young slave and was taught to read and write by the family of her master. She grew up to become one of the foremost poets on the American literary scene.

In 1820, at the age of 15, Maria Becraft opened a school in Washington, D.C. for girls of her race. Then, in 1831, she turned the school over to a former student and joined the Sisters of Providence in Baltimore, which was a teaching order for Black nuns.

While at Tuskegee Institute, George Washington Carver extracted wonderous things from the Alabama soil. His work with the peanut and sweet potato yielded unheard of products such as ink, cooking oils, peanut butter, rope and other commodities beneficial to man.

Prince Hall, a free Negro, veteran of the Revolutionary War and founder of the Negro Masonic order, spoke out for equal education in Boston in 1788. When the Government of Massachusetts offered black children only segregated classrooms, Prince Hall established a school for black children in his own home.

COUNCIL APPROVES GRANT APPLICATION

The City Council voted on Jan. 30 to re-submit applications for four Model Cities law and justice projects and to use $27,930 from the contingency fund as matching monies.

Previous applications for the Adult Outreach, Group Home, Progress House, and Youth Outreach Projects were not approved by the State because Model Cities funds were being used as match. The matching money must come from City funds before the grants will be approved.

Model Cities Director Keith Palmquist told the Council that the project budgets had been planned anticipating the $120,000 in State grants. He added that some projects might be discontinued if the grants are not approved.

Several councilmen said that the City should try to get as many outside grants as possible before President Nixon cuts federal aid programs. The Council approved each grant application individually.

In other action, the Council approved four college extension courses for Model Cities staff members.

Steer and Stop Without Power

Failure of power brakes or power steering can scare the wits out of the driver—if he doesn't know what to expect.

The thing to remember is that the car can still be steered and stopped without the power assists. It will take more physical effort, but it can be done.

Every driver should know what it feels like to handle his car when power steering or brakes are inoperative for some reason. So try it for yourself.

While the car is stopped locate the ignition "off" position. Get on a wide, deserted road or a big, empty parking lot and while driving at moderate speed put the transmission in neutral and shut off the engine by turning the ignition key to the "off" position. Be sure you do not turn the key to the "lock" position.

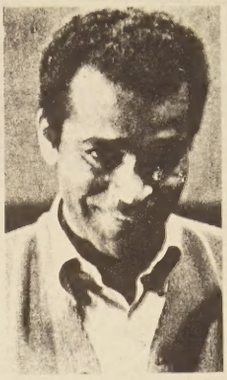
OF MISSION IMPOSSIBLE FAME:

Marijuana Should Be Legalized Says Actor Greg Morris

"I happen to be a kid nut", says Greg Morris, star of Mission Impossible. "I happen to believe that the generation between the ages of 12 and 25 is the most fantastic generation, including mine, that this country has ever had. And I can say this because I have talked to thousands of kids all across the country. Their questions... their minds are fantastic!"

Those were the positive words from the lips of the very expressive and impressive actor, Greg Morris. That positive analysis of today's youngsters was voiced despite other observations that the kids are a generation of "immoral degenerates".

Greg Morris who has proven his abilities as a talented actor on the long-running series Mission Impossible is also proving himself a concerned gentleman of the "older generation" by devoting so much of his time and diligent efforts to kids across the nation.



GREG MORRIS

The phase of young problems that concern Greg most is the area of drug abuse. As the father of three children, ages 14, 12 and 9, he finds drug abuse a personal concern.

The Ohio-born actor grew up with the problem of narcotics in the various ghettos where he lived. It was a common thing in black ghettos to see friends and relatives swept under by drug use. But the concern over narcotic use was never a major issue until it moved out of the black ghettos and into the white suburban area.

"You must remember that at the time that I was growing up, nobody cared about the ghetto people using drugs. And the only reason that there is so much emphasis now on drug abuse is because it moved out of the ghetto and went to Middle-Class America. As long as it stayed over there it was okay, but now they say, 'It's affecting us'!"

Greg, like so many others, was the product of a broken home. Going back over his youth, he told of living in many different places. And while living in Harlem, his mother, "out of love" sent him to a boys' home on a farm to protect him from the harsh environment and the drug element in his neighborhood.

"My mother had to work hard and it was her decision to get me out of the ghetto into the fresh air and away from detrimental surroundings."

Greg spoke of his interest and participation in an anti-drug organization called DAWN (Developing Adolescents Without Narcotics): "The narcotics problem is very close to me because I grew up in many different places around the country and I watched many of my friends become addicts".

Morris feels that a great deal is being done to curb the narcotics problem, but he also believes that much of the work being done is useless. "I have a feeling we're lying to ourselves." According to Greg and others concerned with drug abuse, the emphasis placed on marijuana should not bear the same weight as the emphasis placed on heroin and other hard drugs.

"Marijuana is not a drug!" states Greg emphatically. "It gives a narcotic effect, but it is not a drug as opposed to a barbituarate or amphetamine or heroin."

There has been recent talk of legalizing the controversial "weed". Greg's response about this was: "Definitely it should be legalized! Not being a politician trying to get elected to office, I can say this."

Morris says: "I'm a militant, but I'm a positive militant! I don't give a damn about ideology. I'm concerned about the people!"

FRANCO HARRIS, Pittsburgh Steelers and WILLIE BUCHANAN, Green Bay Packers have been named 1972 National Football League Rookies of the year from 10 nominees voted by football fans throughout the country. Harris and Bell each received the Bert Bell Memorial Trophy.

Mrs. King, Rev. Lloyd, Dr. Abernathy.

Black Churchmen Declared Holy Day.

Monday, January 15 was actually a Holy Day! To many, this may seem difficult to comprehend at first. Yet, it is now a legal Holy Day and "an occasion for refreshing the spiritual aspirations of freedom-loving people throughout the world." Its legal basis came from a new amendment (section 701j) to Title VII of the Civil Rights' Act. Its moral authority came from the National Committee of Black Churchmen (formerly National Committee of Black Churchmen) — an organization representing churches of almost all denominations throughout the nation with a combined congregation of more than 16 million people — when they declared October 12, 1972 that January 15 will be "a Holy Day throughout the world for all people who love freedom and aspire for the liberation of oppressed people everywhere."

Mrs. Coretta Scott King and Dr. Ralph Abernathy Share In The Announcement

Part of the strategy of these astute black thinkers and activists in the church was to withold announcement of that decree until such time as the presidents of each of the major organizational legacies of leadership left behind by Dr. King could all be present. This included Mrs. Coretta Scott King of the Martin Luther King Center for Social Change; Dr. Ralph David Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and Reverend Gil B. Lloyd of the National Conference of Black Churchmen. Thus, on November 21, 1972, these three "legacy of leadership" figures joined hands with other national notables before TV cameras and the full press at the New York Theological Seminary to announce the creation of this new Holy Day. Routine announcements were made on TV networks, radio and newspapers. One magazine — The National BLACK MONITOR, which covered the October 12 meeting — carried the announcement in full because it had prior details.

Support Mushrooms...No Turning Back

As news of the announcement spread, so did support from many quarters including churches, synagogues and local and national organizations of almost all types. Then, on December 9, 1972, the greatest support came when the Reverend W. Sterling Cary — newly elected president of the National Council of Churches — directed that the announcements of the new Holy Day be sent to all councils throughout this nation — and asked that each of these councils, in turn, request full participation by all member churches. Since then, thousands of individual churches and others have committed themselves to support this Holy Day. Planning to date includes services all across the nation from the world renowned Riverside Church in New York City to the smallest in every city and town throughout the nation. "Now," according to Bishop Herbert Bell Shaw, Chairman of the prestigious National Conference of Black Churchmen, "there is no turning back."

What Can Be Done Now

In addition to making the proclamation public, the Reverend Gil Lloyd also announced the formation of the Martin Luther King Holy Day Committee, headquartered in New York, but with local units to be established in houses of worship, club groups, associations, etc. throughout the country. Even though these religious leaders knew that little time was left for planning this year, they asked that business and other kinds of groups — lift a special peace or freedom offering at their meeting prior to the event. These funds should be mailed to:

Holy Day Committee
Citizens Trust Company
75 Piedmont Avenue, NE
Atlanta, Georgia

These funds will be allocated in equal proportions for the work of the three organizations representing Dr. King's "Legacy of Leadership."

What Future Planning Entails

Every organization in the nation is being asked to make plans for 1974 and succeeding years. As presently envisioned, beginning on December 1 (the day Mrs. Rosa Parks resisted Montgomery bus oppression); including such events as possible remarks at Christmas time on national TV by Mrs. Coretta King and other personalities (local and national) and culminating on January 15 (designated as the day of Shalom) the anniversary of our present day Prince of Peace — Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Planning kits to help every group develop a whole range of activities — possibly in the form of KWANZA Jubilee — can be obtained by writing to the main office of The Holy Day Committee, Suite 1004, 507 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

JAMBOREE '73

Hi Scouts!

A National Jamboree is the greatest adventure a Scout can ever have, and in 1973 there is one right here in the great Northwest. Any Scout who is registered and active in his Troop can attend...and you have time to plan and earn your way, if you start now.

Here's your Council's plan-designed to give each Scout a maximum experience.

JAMBOREE WEST will be held at Farragut, Idaho, the site of the 1969 National Jamboree from August 1st to the 7th, 1973.

Our plan gives you multiple possibilities. A boy may choose from three plans: (1) He may choose to attend with his own Troop. Utilize equipment and transportation to keep individual costs low. Cost: $80.00, plus any equipment and transportation fees. (2) If your Troop isn't going, we will place you with a Troop that has space for additional Scouts. Cost: $80.00 plus any equipment and transportation fees. (3) Or, he may choose to go with the Council Provisional Troop. Here, all equipment and transportation will be part of the fee. Cost: $171.00-after the Jamboree, all equipment will be sold, with all unexpended funds returned to those Scouts in the Provisional Troop.

With the many variables available, the least expensive way will be with your own Troop. Total costs will vary from about $120.00 to $171.00. So, don't miss this great event with over 35,000 Scouts camped along the shores of Lake Ponde Oreille in the beautiful Idaho panhandle. Boy's will get a chance to try their hand at panning for gold, fishing, swimming, hiking, canoeing, or just plain enjoying what Mother Nature has to offer in this choice site.

Chief Warrant Officer Receives Awards

Fort Lewis, Wa.--Master Sergeant (Ret.) and Mrs. James E. Woods, of 6221 South Alaska, Tacoma, have been presented the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross, and Purple Heart posthumously awarded their son, Chief Warrant Officer 2 Larry J. Woods.

The 20-year old helicopter pilot was awarded the Silver Star--the nation's third highest award for valor--when the plane he was piloting was shot down last March while he was attempting to evacuate wounded Army of Vietnam personnel. Knowing the allied personnel were in critical condition, Woods volunteered to try and rescue them after two earlier attempts failed.

His plane was fired upon, and although he was hit by at least two bullets, he managed to land the plane before he collapsed and died.

In addition to the medals presented his parents at the February 1 ceremony, Woods had earned the Air Medal for valor, Parachutist Badge, Army Aviator Badge, Vietnam Service and Campaign Medals, and the National Defense Service Medal.

Colonel John Forbes, chief of the Directorate of Plans and Training at Fort Lewis, presented the medals.

In addition to his parents, Woods is survived by his sisters, Carolyn and Rosemarie, and brothers, Clifford, Paul, and Staff Sergeant James E. Woods, Jr., of Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

The Silent Killer—CO

Carbon Monoxide poisoning is silently hiding in your car's exhaust system.

CO is an odorless, tasteless, invisible gas. It can seriously injure or kill its victim by cutting off the oxygen supply.

Preventing CO from entering your car is the best protection.

- Have the exhaust system checked regularly for leaking pipe connections, blown out gaskets, and holes in mufflers or tailpipes;
- Keep the engine well tuned—to keep CO production low;
- Never warm the engine in the garage or sit in a parked car with the engine idling.

CO can seep into the car through an open trunk lid or the open back window of a station wagon. Exhaust fumes tend to rise and follow the car.

Symptoms of CO may be: tightness across the forehead, throbbing in the temples, headache, weariness and signs of fatigue.

Any of these signs may mean you have been exposed to CO. Stop your car and get some fresh air.
